

Article Link<http://www.vox.com/2016/9/29/13096580/globalization-poverty-experiment-blattman...>

Is globalization bad for the global poor? This study ran an experiment to find out.

In the past several decades, manufacturing jobs have fled the developed world for the developing world. Obviously, that's profoundly reshaped the economies of developing countries like China and Bangladesh. But what does that mean for the ordinary people who are doing the work — often for incredibly low wages?

September 29, 2016