In Australia's Shepparton News, Local Doctor Donates Salary to IPA and Similar Organizations

The Australian outlet Shepparton News profiles Dr. Henry Howard, a young local doctor who donated half of his annual salary to charities, including IPA. Dr. Howard selected these organizations based on the principle of Effective Altruism, and said “I gave to a lot of preventative health charities in developing countries because often that’s where the resources are needed most, and preventative health because it’s easy to quantify.”
