

Staff

Marta Carnelli
Research Manager

Date

March 17, 2016

Financial Education and Access to Savings Accounts: Complements or Substitutes?

Julian Jamison (World Bank)
Dean Karlan (Yale)
Jonathan Zinman (Dartmouth)

Frontier Innovations
in Financial Inclusion

#18MCSummit

Mobile Savings and Defaults

Evidence from Afghanistan

Beniamino Savonitto
Financial Inclusion Program | Innovations for Poverty Action
bsavonitto@poverty-action.org

Frontier Innovations
in Financial Inclusion

#18MCSummit

18th Microcredit Summit: Frontier Innovations in Financial Inclusion

On March 17th, 2016, three projects funded by the Citi IPA Financial Capability Research Fund were presented on a panel at the 18th Microcredit Summit in Abu Dhabi. Benni Savonitto (Financial Inclusion Program) presented the results from Mobile-izing Savings: Defined-Contribution Savings on a Mobile Money Platform in Afghanistan; Julian Jamison talked about the long-term follow-up survey that was recently conducted for Starting a Lifetime of Saving: Teaching the Practice of Saving to Ugandan Youth; and Marta Carnelli (IPA Colombia) discussed the progress of the Tablet-Based Financial Education project in Colombia. The three speakers were part of a panel called "Innovations for Poverty Action (IPA): Case Studies from the Field."

City

Abu Dhabi

Country

United Arab Emirates