

Article Link

<https://www.brookings.edu/blog/education-plus-development/2020/03/02/how-skills...>

IPA Evaluation of Uganda Secondary Education Skills Program in Brookings Blog

Boris Bulayev, Meghan Mahoney, and Hannah Ornas of Uganda's Educate! program, which trains secondary school students in entrepreneurship and a range of soft-skills, write on the Brookings Institution's blog about their evaluation with IPA. The study found that female Educate! graduates were more likely to continue their education and to wait longer to start a family.

March 17, 2020