

Researchers

Lorenzo Casaburi
University of Zurich

Michael Podesta
Global Communications Specialist

Claudia Casarotto
Chief Global Programs Officer

Prices and Farmer Investment: Evidence from Experimental Studies

Changes in commodity prices may impact smallholder farmers in various ways: to what extent do higher prices transmit to the farmer (or are they captured by intermediaries)? Can higher prices spur higher investment or lead to better outcomes for farming households, reducing poverty? This Investment Brief highlights key messages from the available experimental and quasi-experimental evidence on this topic and identifies evidence gaps for future work.

Read the Brief here.

---

Partners

Investment Centre of the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations (FAO)