IPA Nigeria Launches 'Promoting Evidence-Based Anti-Trafficking Efforts in Nigeria'

Thursday, December 7, 2023 | 9:00 AM - 12:00 PM | Abuja, Nigeria

Prof. Fatima Waziri-Azi, Director General, National Agency for the Prohibition and Trafficking in Persons and Funmilayo Ayeni, IPA Nigeria Country Director

Innovations for Poverty Action (IPA) Nigeria in collaboration with Nigeria's National Agency for the Prohibition and Trafficking in Persons (NAPTIP) officially launched 'Promoting Evidence-based Anti-trafficking Efforts in Nigeria' on Thursday, December 7, 2023, in Abuja. The effort is a part of the 'Program to End Modern Slavery' (PEMS) funded by the U.S. State Department Office to Monitor and Combat Trafficking in Persons. In 2020, IPA received a $5.6 million award to increase the evidence base on the effectiveness of anti-trafficking interventions around the world. In 2022, IPA received an additional $2.3 million to develop an evidence lab in Nigeria supporting the Nigerian government as it aims to target anti-trafficking programming more effectively within the country.

The official launch informed the public and stakeholders in the anti-trafficking community in Nigeria of IPA's planned institutional capacity to strengthen NAPTIP's ambitious mandate of increasing the rate of prosecutions and convictions of traffickers, providing comprehensive support to survivors, and increasing general awareness about trafficking through the development and implementation of rigorous research and new evidence to improve programs and policies. The foundation for this partnership was laid in May 2023 when IPA and NAPTIP entered a two-year Memorandum of Understanding (MOU), solidifying IPA's commitment to supporting NAPTIP in fulfilling its crucial mandates through strategic collaboration and the implementation of rigorous research and evidence-based approaches—translating new evidence into improved programs and policies.
